Thank you for choosing to submit your manuscript to the International Journal of Linguistics, Literature and Translation. This author’s guide will ensure we have everything required so your manuscript can move through peer review process, production and publication very smoothly. Please take the time to read and follow it as closely as possible, as doing so will ensure your manuscript matches the journal’s requirements.

Manuscript Submission
1- Authors are cordially invited to submit their manuscripts online Click Here or via email to editor@ijllt.org
2- Acknowledgement will be sent to the corresponding author within a few business days upon receiving of the manuscript.
3- The manuscript submitted to International Journal of Linguistics, Literature and Translation is subject to peer review. The manuscript is evaluated by external reviewers (anonymous to authors) and refereed within one month.

Before you begin
Authors should observe the following codes of conduct when they intend to submit/publish a paper.

1- Conflict of interest: contributors should reveal any actual or potential conflict of interest including any financial, personal or other relationships with other people or organizations within three years of beginning the submitted work that could inappropriately influence, or be perceived to influence, their work.
2- Authors are required to provide a complete list of references cited in their paper.
3- The journal cannot bear plagiarism and fraudulent data in any paper. It has a strict policy against plagiarism, which is checked through two methods: reviewer check and plagiarism prevention tool (Turnitin). All submissions will be checked before being sent to reviewers.
4- All papers are reviewed by a minimum of two reviewers.
5- It is assumed that all authors have significantly contributed to the submitted paper, if there is a co-author(s) in the submitted manuscript.
6- In case of presence of any fraudulent information in an article, its authors will be responsible for providing retractions or corrections of mistakes.
7- It is strictly prohibited to publish the same research in more than one journal.
8- Changes to authorship: this policy concerns the addition, deletion, or rearrangement of author names in the authorship of accepted manuscripts. Before the accepted manuscript is published in an online issue, requests to add or remove an author, or to rearrange the author names, must be sent to the Journal from the corresponding author of the accepted manuscript and must include: (a) the reason the name should be added or removed, or the author names rearranged and (b) written confirmation (e-mail) from all authors that they agree with the addition, removal or rearrangement. In the case of addition or removal of authors, this includes confirmation from the author being added or removed. Requests that are not sent by the corresponding author will be forwarded by the Journal to the corresponding author, who must follow the procedure as described above. Any requests to add, delete, or rearrange author names in a published article will not be taken into account.

Authors should note that
1- A paper which is going to be submitted to this journal should be according to the journal Paper Submission Guideline as explained below.
2- The submission must not have been previously published, nor should it be under consideration for publication elsewhere. We also have a strict policy against plagiarism. The plagiarism is checked through two methods: reviewer check and plagiarism prevention tool (Turnitin). All submissions will be checked by online software before being sent to reviewers.

1- General Requirements
1.1 Language
Please write your text in proper English; American or British usage is accepted, but not a mixture of both. We only accept manuscripts written in English.
1.2 Length of Paper
There is no word/page limit in a manuscript, but the manuscript should not exceed 30 pages.

2. Word Processing Formats
The manuscript file should be provided in Microsoft Word format only.

3. Organization of Manuscript
The manuscript should follow the following order:
1- Title
2- List of authors, their affiliations and email addresses
3- Keywords
4- Abstract
5- Introduction
6- Literature review
7- Methodology
8- Results & Discussion
9- Conclusion
10- Acknowledgements (optional)
11- About the Author(s)
12- References
13- Tables and Figures

3.1 Title
The title should be a concise and informative description of the work that accurately reflect the main scope and content of the paper. It should be no more than 12 words in length and not contain abbreviations.

3.2 List of authors, their affiliations and email addresses
Please indicate the full names and affiliations of all the authors clearly. Affiliations should include department, university, country, and, if available, and the e-mail address. One of the authors should be designated as the corresponding author, and their email address needs to be included.

3.3 Keywords
The author should provide appropriate and short keywords Immediately after the abstract. The maximum number of the keywords is 10. Listing your keywords will help researchers find your work in databases.

3.4 Abstract
Abstract should state briefly the purpose of the research, design/methodology/approach, the main results and major conclusions. It should not exceed 350 words. No citations should be included in the abstract.

3.5 Introduction
This section should be concise and define the background and significance of the research by considering the relevant literature, particularly the most recent publications. When preparing the introduction, please bear in mind that some readers will not be experts in your field of research.

3.6 Literature Review
This section is dedicated to the significant literature resources that contributed to the research. The author should survey scholarly articles, books and other sources relevant to the area of research, providing a description, summary, and critical evaluation of each work.

3.7 Methodology
This section should contain detailed information about the procedures and steps followed in the study. It can be divided into subsections if several methods are described.

3.8 Results and Discussion
This section is a comparative or descriptive analysis of the study based on the results/findings, previous literature, etc. The results should be offered in a logical sequence, given the most important findings first and addressing the stated objectives of the study. The author should deal only with new or important aspects of the results obtained. The relevance of the findings in the context of existing literature or contemporary practice should be addressed as well.

3.9 Conclusion
The author should clearly explain the important conclusions of the research highlighting its significance and relevance.

3.10 Acknowledgments
The author is free to include acknowledgments or not. This section may include the names of people who in one way or another contributed to the work. It can also include information about supporting grants, funding sources, and so forth.

3.11 About the Author(s)
The author can present his activities, research interests, memberships and affiliations, published research, etc. Authors are also free to include their photos.

3.12 References
References used in the paper should follow the APA style and carefully checked for accuracy and consistency. Please ensure that every reference cited in the text is also present in the reference list and vice versa.

3.12.1 References Examples

Books
❖ Book with one author

❖ Electronic book
Replace place-of-publication and publisher information with the DOI.

Note: Insert a blank space if you need to break a URL across lines before most punctuation. Do not add a period after the URL.

❖ Work with two authors

❖ Two or more works by the same author
Arrange by the year of publication, the earliest first.

If works by the same author are published in the same year, arrange alphabetically by title and distinguish the documents by adding a lowercase letter after the year of publication as indicated below.

❖ Book by a corporate author
Associations, corporations, agencies, government departments, and organizations are considered authors when there is no single author.
❖ A book with no author or editor listed
❖ A translated work and/or a republished work

Anthologies, Course Packs, & Encyclopedias
❖ Anthology or compilation

❖ Work in an anthology or an essay in a book

❖ Work in a course pack

❖ Article in a reference book or an entry in an encyclopedia

Articles
❖ Article in a journal—for articles retrieved online

Note: List only the volume number if the periodical uses continuous pagination throughout a particular volume. If each issue begins with page 1, then list the issue number as well.

❖ Articles in a journal, more than seven authors

❖ Article in a newspaper or magazine

❖ Article from an electronic source

3.13 Tables and Figures
The tables and figures should be presented at the end of the research.

4. Manuscript Selection
The peer review process for journal publication is essentially a quality control mechanism. It is a process by which experts evaluate scholarly works, and its objective is to ensure a high quality of published work. The International Journal of Linguistics, Literature and Translation follows a double-blind peer review system, wherein the names of the authors and reviewers’ identity are not disclosed. The Journal employs a three-stage review process – basic check, double blind peer review and the acceptance/rejection decision:

Stage 1: Basic Check
The first stage of the review process takes place in the editorial office. On submission, a manuscript is reviewed to ensure that it meets the minimum requirements of the journal before it is sent to external reviewers. At this stage, the manuscript is reviewed for the following:

- Possible plagiarism: The manuscript is evaluated to compare the level of similarity with other published works. The International Journal of Linguistics, Literature and Translation uses Turnitin plagiarism detection system to achieve this goal. Manuscripts that have high level of similarity with other works (including the author(s) previous works) are rejected at this stage. Authors are provided with the similarity report together with the decision to reject the manuscript.

- Scope: After a manuscript has undergone similarity check and the level of similarity is judged to be appropriate, the content of the manuscript is checked to ensure that it fits within the scope of the journal selected by the author(s). In situations where the content of the manuscript does not fit the scope of the journal, the author’s consent is sought for the manuscript to be transferred to a more suitable journal. A transferred manuscript does not automatically translate to an accepted manuscript in the receiving journal. The manuscript still undergoes the usual peer review and may be accepted or reject if it is not suitable.

- English Language: The International Journal of Linguistics, Literature and Translation currently publishes full text of articles only in English language. Manuscripts are checked for the structure, organization, correctness and clarity of the language as it adheres to the journal’s Instructions for Authors. The editorial office usually makes correction to minor grammatical errors in such a manner that it does not alter the manuscript. However, in situations where language is substantially difficult to comprehend, the manuscript is returned to the author to improve clarity of the language.

Manuscripts that fail in this first stage of the review process are returned to the author(s) for modification and resubmission. This first stage of the review is very important as it enables the author(s) improve the manuscript at an early stage. This first stage of the manuscript review is usually completed within a week.

Stage 2: Double Blind Peer Review
Once a manuscript successfully completes the editorial office review process, it proceeds to the second stage. The second stage of the review process employs the double-blind review system. A minimum of two external reviewers are selected from our database, editorial board of the journal or other sources. These reviewers have expert knowledge of the subject area of the manuscript. The reviewers are invited to review the manuscript by sending them the abstract of the manuscript. Upon acceptance to review the manuscript, the full text of the manuscript is sent to the reviewers after the author(s) have been concealed.
Reviewers are required to evaluate the manuscripts and provide useful comments to enable the author(s) improve the quality of the manuscript. Reviewers also score the manuscript in terms of originality, contribution to the field, technical quality, clarity of presentation and depth of research. Finally, reviewers make one of the following suggestion about the manuscript:

- Accept without any changes: The journal will publish the paper in its original form.
- Accept with minor revisions: The journal will publish the paper after making minor corrections suggested by reviewers.
- Accept with major revisions / Revise and resubmit: The journal will publish the paper provided the authors make the changes suggested by the reviewers and/or editors.
- Reject: The journal will not publish the paper or reconsider it even if the authors make major revisions.

It should be noted that though a reviewer may give a positive report on a particular manuscript, if another reviewer raises concerns that may fundamentally undermine the study and results the manuscript may be rejected. Upon receipt of the reviewers’ comments, the editorial office reviews the comment. If the two reviewers’ comments have been significantly different or contradictory opinions about the same manuscripts, the manuscript is re-sent to a third reviewer. All reviewers’ comments (including the third reviewers’ comment where necessary) are thereafter sent to the author(s). The reviewers’ identities are concealed from the author(s). The total time taken to complete the second stage of the manuscript review dependent on the availability of the reviewers. However, it is usually completed between one to four weeks. Using the reviewers’ comments, author(s) makes corrections to the manuscript and submits a revised manuscript.

Stage 3: Acceptance/Rejection Decision
Upon receipt of the revised submission, the manuscript undergoes the third and final stage of the review process. The original manuscript, the revised manuscript and all the reviewers’ comments are sent to an editor of the journal. The editor reviews the manuscript and makes one of the following decisions:

- Accept without any changes: The journal will publish the paper in its original form.
- Accept with minor revisions: The journal will publish the paper after making minor corrections suggested by reviewers.
- Accept with major revisions / Revise and resubmit: The journal will publish the paper provided the authors make the changes suggested by the reviewers and/or editors.
- Reject: The journal will not publish the paper or reconsider it even if the authors make major revisions.

Manuscript accepted without corrections are scheduled for publication. Manuscripts that require corrections (either minor or major) are sent to the author(s) to affect the corrections suggested by the editor. After effecting the corrections, the editor reviews the manuscripts again before the manuscripts are accepted for publication. In some cases, the editor may require authors to make corrections a second time. In other cases, the editor may request for the revised manuscripts with (or without) the additional corrections to be sent to a specific reviewer who had earlier reviewed the manuscript before the manuscript can be accepted for publication.

5- Submission Preparation Checklist
As part of the submission process, authors are required to check off their submission’s compliance with all of the following items, and submissions may be returned to authors that do not adhere to these guidelines.

a) The submission has not been previously published, nor is it before another journal for consideration (or an explanation has been provided in Comments to the Editor).

b) The submission file is in OpenOffice, Microsoft Word, RTF, or WordPerfect document file format.

c) Where available, URLs for the references have been provided.

d) The text adheres to the stylistic and bibliographic requirements outlined in the Author Guide, which is found in About the Journal.

6- Copyright Notice
Authors who publish with this journal agree to the following terms:

a) Authors retain copyright and grant the journal right of first publication with the work simultaneously licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution License that allows others to share the work with an acknowledgement of the work’s authorship and initial publication in this journal.
b) Authors are able to enter into separate, additional contractual arrangements for the non-exclusive distribution of the journal’s published version of the work (e.g., post it to an institutional repository or publish it in a book), with an acknowledgement of its initial publication in this journal.
c) Authors are permitted and encouraged to post their work online (e.g., in institutional repositories or on their website) prior to and during the submission process, as it can lead to productive exchanges, as well as earlier and greater citation of published work.

7- Access Policy
This is an open access journal which means that all content is freely available without charge to the user or his/her institution. Users are allowed to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of the articles, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without asking prior permission from the publisher or the author.
Forthcoming issues and articles in press contain papers which have been peer reviewed, accepted, copy edited and formatted. Articles in press are citable but should not be considered as a final form of publication since text could still change before final publication.

8- Publication Fee
There is a publication fee of 80 USD for the accepted paper to be paid by the author’s research funds, projects, grants, institution, etc. There aren’t article submission charges.
